THE COMING INQUIRY.

President Cleveland has done unwisely—to say the least—in appointing an attorney and a U. S. Circuit Judge as the Arbitration Commissioners—so to call them—who are to act with the Commissioner of the Labor Bureau, in the matter of the recent tie-up. People have lost confidence in the United States courts, because everywhere the courts and the offices of the United States attorneys are the rendezvous of railroad lawyers and railroad servants and hangers-on generally. It was conspicuously the case here during the tie-up. People who did not wear a brass collar marked S. P. were excluded from the sacred precincts of the U. S. Courts and offices as if they were bomb-bearing anarchists; but the collar-wearers were welcomed with bows and smiles, all telegrams were open to them, and they could conduct themselves as if the place belonged to them. President Cleveland has really decided the fate of the arbitration committee in advance. The Commission, as he has constituted it, may suit Pullman, Huntington & Co., but it certainly will not command the confidence of the workmen.

Senator Allen's bill to have all the official correspondence connected with the tie-up produced is a good one. The production of the correspondence is very necessary to a clear understanding of the case. The people want to know who ran the country in those few troublous days. Shall we see telegrams addressed "General Ruger, Dept. of Cals., San Francisco, Cal., care of A. N. Towne?" If so, perhaps we shall see telegrams addressed: "General Schofield, commanding the United States Army, Washington, D. C., care of C. P. Huntington." General Ruger is a gentleman and a soldier, and we do not blame him much for going to Fourth and Townsend every day during the strike instead of making the railroad people come to him if they wanted to see him. He simply followed the prevailing custom among federal employees, of behaving as if they received their salaries from and owed service and deference to the railroad combine. This subservience of the federal authorities to corporations in one of the things that has roused the people of the United States for some time, and that accounts for the anti-railroad sentiment which some of our esteemed contemporaries pretend they cannot account for.

PARTY PLATFORMS.

The following are ringing words from Charles Sumner:

"It will not be enough merely to put forth opinions in well couched phrases, and add yet other resolutions to the hollow words which have passed into the limbo of things lost to earth. We must give to our opinions that edge and force which they can have only from the declared determination to abide by them at all times. We must carry them to the ballot box, and bring our candidates to their standard."

"The face of nature may be blasted, the land may be struck with sterility, villages may be swept by floods of fire, and whole families entombed alive in its burning sepulchre; but all these evils are small compared with the deep, abiding, unutterable curse from an act of national wrong."

"How shall we make our opposition felt? How shall it become vital and palpable? On this occasion we can only declare our course. But this should be in language sternly expressive of our determination."

"To those who now too ready for the part of grand compromiser on a question which admits of no compromise, it will be a warning that they can expect no support for high office from us. Our motto must be, 'Principles, and those only who will maintain them.'"

SENATOR FOLEY.

The tragic taking off of State Senator Foley, removes one of Nevada's most prominent citizens. He had amassed quite a fortune in mining and other business enterprises in Eureka, from which county he was elected to the Senate for two terms. About five years ago he moved to Reno and was sent from Washoe county to his old place in the Senate four years ago. He was a most active and enterprising business man, and at the time of his death was President of the Bank of Nevada and interested in several schemes looking to the benefit of his town and State. He was a member of the National Republican Committee and was prominent in the State Republican party. Deceased leaves a widow who resides in Reno.

The latest move made by the working classes is that of organizing military companies. If this could be carried out it would cause the Government to consider a little before it pronounces martial law in the interests of a few millionaires who pay so much a year for the sake of owning the President and the officials of the United States. In San Francisco they have an independent rifle corps that on the Fourth of July made the best appearance in the parade. The corps is not composed of boys but of middle aged men men, in fact some of them have seen actual duty in the civil war.

The Secretary of the Interior holds that under the grant to the Northern Pacific the Secretary of the Interior had no power to make a withdrawal of indemnity lands for the benefit of the company. This decision will extend to the homes of hundreds of settlers throughout Washington, Montana and other Pacific Coast States.

Men in official circles at Managua say the United States is backing the Nicaraguan scheme on the Atlantic Coast regardless of the treaty and the Emperor of Austria's award. Nicaraguan troops are already moving upon the Bluefields.

Prince Hatzfeldt, C. P. Huntington's son-in-law, having lost $10,000 at Saratoga the limit fixed by the house to losers, and not being allowed to continue playing, upset the roulette table and smashed things generally.

Baron Haller, a German poet, when a young man risked his life to save his manuscript poems from a burning building. He laid them away, and a few years later, sitting down to read them over, was so disgusted with them that he threw them all into the fire.
